

Published based on Solar Hot Water System Commissioned at Multi-Family Low-Income Housing Property in Downtown San Diego

Solar Hot Water System Commissioned at Multi-Family Low-Income Housing Property in Downtown San Diego

Parker Kier Apartments in downtown San Diego will operate with a solar hot water system and save 80% on their annual water heating costs. California Solar Thermal and SunUp Energy joint venture partnered on the project.

(PRWeb February 15, 2012)

Read the full story at

Solar Hot Water System Commissioned at Multi-Family Low-Income Housing Property in Downtown San Diego

You can also find this article published on Solar Hot Water System Commissioned at Multi-Family Low-Income Housing Property in Downtown San Diego, and on the tag pages apartments, downtown san diego, hot water system, joint venture, Kier, low income housing, solar hot water, Solar Hot Water System, Solar System, water heating.